NetBull Keylogger works in absolutely stealth mode. Its stealth mode is a unique combination of the most up-to-date technologies in system security and software stealthiness. While most of the keyloggers are detected by antivirus and antispyware software, NetBull is able to override this issue. The keylogger is hiding in system and takes the system time, and it's hiding in other system programs and cannot be seen running in Task Manager. NetBull stealth keylogger runs flawlessly with the protection system implemented in new Windows 8 - there is no prompt from UAC (User Account Control - a technology introduced 1st time with Windows Vista), DEP (Data Execution Prevention), built-in Windows firewall and Windows Defender. Windows Defender won't detect NetBull keylogger even at runtime. The full version of NetBull keylogger is undetected when scanned with Windows Defender, Norton AV, Avira, McAfee, Avast and AVG.
