Approximately 12 hours before making this discovery I ran an anti-virus and anti-spyware scan using ZoneAlarm Security Suite (which I just purchased yesterday). The scan came up clean, but my fiancée did use the computer in the subsequent 12 hour timeframe. As far as I know, she doesn't visit any uh. "questionable" sites; however, she does visit the myspace design sites every now and then. Not sure where else her browsing took her today though. After I encountered the AntiSpyware Deluxe window, I ran ZoneAlarm again as well as TrendMicro Housecall.

If you have never played before to this game, it is recommendable that you start in the Classic mode, as the other ones have a higher degree of difficulty. In the Puzzle mode, for example, it will increase the difficulty and you will have to use the logic to finish with all the jewels in the given time. It also has secret modes that you will have to deactivate.

Also m0le how severe is this do you think? I mean, it is not something that is super super urgent right?

CNET called the ElitePad a "well-built business tablet with an impressive array of add-ons and accessories," though many of those accessories (most notably the keyboard case) are on the pricey side. But this Atom-powered Windows 8 tablet features 64GB of solid-state storage, dual cameras, Bluetooth 4.0, and other nice perks. Plus, it's new, not refurbished.

Shopica redirect I can't get rid of

I logged into my unused bank account today and to my dismay it was negative $300/00 I looked through the charges and saw that there was a payment made to paypal causing my account to overdraw and keep getting fees added daily. I then went into my paypal account to see when this had happened as I had no idea what this charge was for. It was to someone out of the country, a verified account for a woman named Giana Ginna. I have no idea who this is and I didnt authorize such a transaction. I immediately called paypal and they told me that they would put investigate the claim and that they would credit my account if it turned out that in fact these were fraudulent charges. They ended up telling me it takes 14 days for this investigation and that they will not help me w/ overdraft charges etc and that it's my banks responsibility. I got in my car and drove to the bank to speak to them about this. While I was out I stopped to grab something and tried to use my paypal debit card (where I had just received another payment and had $) and my card was declined. I figured it was because of the dispute but when I got home and logged into my account to check it out and found out that the same Giana Ginna had received another payment, supposedly sent by me. I called paypal again about it and they told me that it too would take an additional 14 days to be credited. They told me that I probably have a keylogger or some type of malware.
