Guide - Power Auras for Everyone

Pros: It's always nice to have a second chance, and that 20% figure will scale no matter how much health and mana you manage to get. In PvP, it may allow you to get the jump on an opponent who thinks they've won, and even in grinding, it may at least save you a long corpse run. In grouping and raiding, especially on a boss that your group doesn't quite have on farm status, it could save you a wipe, or give you a chance to resurrect and start bringing people back if the Warlock forgot to use his Soulstone.

Maelstrom Crystal) to cheat Blizzard

Pros: If you're a DPSer who relies on critical strikes to get their damage in, and haven't been able to get a good critical strike percentage, this could be your trinket. It might also allow you to swap out some critical strike rating on your gear and gems for a bit more spell damage or attack power while not sacrificing as much in the way of total critical strike percentage. This can also be useful in PvP for giving you an edge against opponents with a high resilience rating.

Pre-raiding: Now that vortexes are BoE, find someone to craft you a Belt of Blasting. It is worth it to buy something that you will never replace as long as you're level 70. If you don't have the money, make getting the heroic belt a high priority, as its much better than the 5 man options you can get and the dated Girdle of Ruination. Repeat, spend the 800g and get this belt.

Actually you don't have to have exactly 12 buttons per bar. It can be any amount from 1 to 12 or even 2 rows of 6 buttons or any other configuration that you prefer.

Order Resources to ensure that you can complete all the missions that you are given to do for the campaign. As you progress through the story, you will also gain small amounts of resources from a few missions in the campaign questline.

Tier 5 raiding: Zul'jin's neck piece is pretty nice, as is the quest reward for Destruction after you kill Kael'thas. However, neither is a big upgrade, so don't worry too much about upgrading your Kara necklace. Morogrim's necklace is atrocious for PvE.

In Final Fantasy VIII, you have to do this manually using the junction system

Step 7 of 8: Auras: I would advice for 'Icons Only' - we don't need a million bars and timers for standard raid buffs. We all know that they are present. But you can select the 'Aura Bars&Icons' option too if it's you taste. Click 'Continue' when you're done.

Cons: Once you start getting a high critical strike rating, this trinket will be less useful, since you'll be constantly critically striking anyway. It's another stacking buff, so like the Darkmoon Card: Crusade before it, you'll have to be making a successful direct damage attack every 10 seconds for the stack to stay up.

The most awesome thing about ElvUI is that after you did it once, no need to configure the addon for every character. Just choose the toon or a named profile that you want to copy the settings from. If you have a viable offspec, you can also 'Enable Dual Profile' to configure it.

Pre-raiding: I recommend actually going for a 1H + off-hand for pretty much all of raiding. This is especially true given the itemization for pre-raiding, as you usually get a better DPS combination that way. Kael'thas in Magister's Terrace drops a pretty nice staff though and is one of the better DPS blue staffs. I still recommend the 1H+OH combo though.

Single-Target Rotation for Elemental Shaman

Pre-raiding: With the new patch there is a very good blue item that drops in the new 5 man instance. Don't worry if you can't get that though, as there is an item just as good in Karazhan. The badge cloaks aren't worth it for PvE. If you really want to be ready for Karazhan though, get the new cloak in the Sunwell 5 man or get the Cloak of the Black Void crafted.

Pre-raiding: The wand slot doesn't give a whole lot of DPS points, so don't worry if you don't have the best wand when you start raiding. You'll get a good one eventually. If you want the best wand available for a long time, keep running heroic Underbog for The Black Stalk.

The key to success is managing all of your separate procs without overcapping Maelstrom

Tier 5 raiding: The Belt of Blasting is without question much better than Lurker's belt. Get this as soon as you can and you will have no need to spend DKP on a dropped item.

During the Second War he defended Ironforge from the orcs and joined the Alliance of Lordaeron. The source of each item is also. Tier 8 has a single research item, as with Tier 6, so there is no choice to be made here. This upgrade will simply grant you the chance to get a double ArtifactPower reward from world quests and missions.

Pros: This is probably the level 60 card that holds up best at level 70 since it works off a percentage of your mana regeneration, and thus scales no matter how much you have. It also makes a great pair with the Bangle of Endless Blessings, giving you more chances to have some sort of extra mana regeneration at any given time. It's especially amazing for Tree Form Druids, since they usually have a lot of spirit from gear and talents anyway, and cast spells with a short or non-existent cast time.

It's a Fel Reaver, But with Heart - Quest - World of Warcraft

Tier 6 raiding: Translucent Spellthread Necklace is a very nice upgrade and is one of the most important items to take away from Black Temple. The best necklace in game is in SWP, but unfortunately only for Jewelcrafters. The Eredar Twins do have a slight upgrade from the BT neck though.

Elemental Shaman DPS Rotation, Cooldowns, and Abilities — Shadowlands 9.1

Tier 6 raiding: Anetheron's Noose and Supremus' belt are pretty bad and pure downgrades from the Belt of Blasting. The Tier 6 belt in Sunwell is the only waist item better than the Belt of Blasting and helps to work towards the 4 piece bonus.

Cooldown Usage for Elemental Shaman

Tier 6 raiding: Illidan's headpiece is a DPS upgrade over Tier 6, but it's probable that you might want the Tier 6 helm for the 4/5 T6 bonus. Either way, grab one of the two, as there is no major upgrade in Sunwell.

Tier 4 raiding: Aran's wand is very nice to help reach the hit cap and is the best option you can get until Tempest Keep. It's one of the better items you can get out of Karazhan.

Enhancement Shaman PvP Guide

Tier 7 is a choice that will depend mainly on your class. Given that it allowseither a new type of troops or an extra champion to be used, it will be based onthe usefulness of your champion roster and whether or not they can effectivelyadd to your mission progress, at least more so than the extra troop would.

It'll automatically choose Disenchant or Greed (depending on whether an enchanter is available or not). This option works only on max level so don't be afraid to DE something useful.

Tier 5 raiding: If your guild is killing Jan'alai in ZA, go for his weapon. If not, the Merciless Gladiator's Spellblade is still pretty much the best you can do here for a guaranteed item, but if you are in a Leo killing guild, then his sword becomes a good alternative.

Enhancement Shaman Macros and Addons

Tick Character specific Key Bindings only if you want different positioning of hotkeys on the bars for different characters. You'll get an explanation of what to do on the screen. Do not forget to click 'Save' when you're done.

Tier 4 raiding: Make sure you have Spellstrike. Tier 4 legs are decent, but Spellstrike is just so much better. Stay away from Trial-Fire Trousers.

If I reach 30k kills, still without the egg, I will petition a GM and demand a review of the loot table, availability, and fairness of this item. I finally got past Aerin. Challenge him for Ward's card, as well as other level 6 and 7 cards. If you want to mix Balamb's rules with Esthar's, go ahead, and mix to spread 'Open'. If not, say nuntil he stops -Taking Advantage of the Local Monsters -You'll notice that there are a lot of Mesmerizes in the highway of Esthar, and on the outskirts of the city. Before long you will have accumulated many of their Blades. Refine these into Regenmagic with Supt Mag-RF and Mega-Potions with Recov Med-RF. Chances are you'll give each character 100 Regens each AND 100 MegaPotions in your inventory. Mega-Potions can be sold for 7500 gileach -Phoenix Pinions Galore -Do you want heaps of Phoenix Pinions? Here's the drill; buy MegaPhoenixes from Johnny's Shop (use Call Shop) and refine them into Phoenix Pinions with Tool-RF or Med LV Up. You can also refine 20 Phoenix Pinions into a Phoenix Spirit, which teaches a guardian force Recover. You can also get Mega Phoenixes by using Med LV Upon Phoenix Downs -Getting Megalixirs Easily -You'll need 500 000 g for this; buy 10 Elixirs and convert them to 10 Megalixirs. They'll become very helpful in the battle against Omega Weapon -Tricks for Angelo to Learn -You can buy a Pet Pals Vol 5 there which teaches Angelo the very useful 'Angelo Search'.

The sixth tier has no choices for any class, it is exactly the same for everyone. The last advancement will allow you to increase the number of legendary items you equip by one.

Tier 5 raiding: There are no upgrades. Prince's cloak beats them all by a good margin, but there is a cloak from ZA that is an alternative.

You should pay attention to the 'Hide' button. For some reason it is ticked by default so you'll have to untick it for every button you want to see on your Minimap.

Tier 4 raiding: The Lightning Capacitor isn't a very good trinket for us since in Affliction specs we don't stack crit and for Destruction specs our main nuke has a long cast time. Let a elemental shaman, mage, or balance druid get it instead. Mag's Eye is an interesting trinket and with the proc it is right up there with the 4500 DP range. The thing is the proc gets worse the better your gear gets, so I still like the options I suggested in the pre-raiding section over anything you'll find at the Tier 4 level.

I see a lot of locks gemming incorrectly these days, so I'm going to give my thoughts on the best way to gem. When you gem an item, first look at the socket bonus, and how many gems are needed to get to the socket bonus. Next, take note of what stats you need to work on, especially if you are not hit capped through stats on gear only. If you are not hit capped, the best way to gem is by putting pure spell hit gems into sockets in this order of preference.

Tier 6 raiding: The Ashtongue Talisman of Shadows is a pretty nice trinket for Affliction locks on multiple target fights (like Akama), but not that great anywhere else. The Skull of Gul'dan off Illidan however is an amazing, amazing DPS booster and is a gigantic upgrade over anything else you may have.

Lyre was duly impressed, but hoped to deliver a one-up. She cocked back her warmallet and gave it a toss at the nearest tentacle.

We've tagged them Locust since this degree of death has only been seen in times of plague. It optionally shows number of orbs on left shield, stacks of MW, advises of next shock in rotation. Macros and Addons provide many quality-of-life improvements in WoW, allowing players to improve how information is displayed in-game or automate decision-making to optimize performance.

Tier 5 raiding: Skip Tier 5 and go for Vashj's robes. They're the best in the game before Sunwell.

A certain character who is set up the right way can provide backup and support for the other two. WarriorThe offensive mover-and-shaker of the party. You'll want to bless him with god-like strength, good speed and hit rate, so early in the game choose someone who will be your primary warrior, junction Ifrit and Str Bonus til he reaches level 100. Speed should also be a high priority. The Defender and Physical Fighter roles could be combined. In any case, Ifrit, Pandemona, Bahamat, Eden and Cerberus are able GF candidates for this role. Squall, Seifer, Rinoa, Zell and Irvine would make sufficient physical fighters. WizardThis type of character is like the physical fighter, except everything is focused on the wizard's ability to cast magic, mostly the offensive kind. The best GF for any would-be wizard is Siren. With her you can junction Mag Bonus until the chosen wizard is at level 100.

Tier 6 raiding: Get Akama's bracers instead of Rage's. The spell haste bracers are good too if your guild has extra Hearts of Darkness. Once you get to Sunwell however, get the massively overpowered Tier 6 bracers. They're a gigantic upgrade over MH/BT bracers and will also help toward the 4 piece bonus.

Tier 6 raiding: Tier 6 chest piece and Robes of Rhonin or both not as good as Vashj's robe. Use the T6 robe if you want the four piece bonus, but pray that you get a Sunfire Robe pattern to drop as soon as possible in SWP. It's by far the best robe in the game.

You can replace Grounding Totem with this PvP talent in those situations. Now I don't have to go onto WoW Armory and find out that T6 pieces are an upgrade from the greens on my shaman who just hit 70. Blizzard Entertainment 2020-04-18. Simple huh -Introduction to the Concept of Magic Effecting your Performance -In other Final Fantasies characters protect themselves against ailments and status ailments with armour or accessories. They also attack with weapons that inflict an elemental or status ailment. In Final Fantasy VIII, you have to do this manually using the junction system. When junctioning magic, press left two times to see the status/elemental screens. First, the GF needs to know stuff like ST Atk-J or Elem Def-J, and when you junction a 100 of certain status or elemental magic when your characters hit, they will have that effect. Status/elemental defence is set up slightly differently. When you junction 100 of a certain magic to elemental defence, there will be a percentage of defence against that element. A green star next to the percentage indicates that you will not be damaged by it, or if the percentage is 100%, absorb it. That system is much the same with status defence, except you can only nullify status ailments, not absorb them. To see all the effects of each kind of magic when junctioned, check the appendices "Status junctions". Elemental and status magic may be junctioned to your characters weapon, so when they attack, the magic will take effect depending on how much magic was put into the weapon.

TBC Classic Elemental Shaman rotation

Tier 5 raiding: Tier 5 gloves are also pretty bad, as are the ones off Kael'thas. You should be keeping whatever you have and holding off an upgrade until Tier 6. If you do happen to get Doomwalker's gloves (they are BoE) cheap, pick them up as they are the best you'll find outside of Sunwell.

The choice in this tier is exactly the same for each class. Either you can choose to upgrade your greater troops by a rank, which means they have an extra ability and, generally, 15% more success chance contribution, or you can upgrade your less troops, which adds 5% to their success chance contribution.

Lava Surge procs to gain a significant amount of DPS on one target. If this is an important part of the fight, you may want to gear toward Haste, as this is a very good stat for this strategy.

Blue sockets are generally the worst socket for DPS, but we need two of them to activate the Chaotic Skyfire Diamond meta gem. Sometimes blue sockets aren't so bad, such as in the Belt of Blasting where you won't lose a lot of DPS by socketing a purple gem in the blue socket and getting the socket bonus.

Most of these procs had an element that you couldn't control like a critical strike. These estimations were taken from a 0/21/40 Shadowbolt spam (assuming 25% crit) with 5/6 time casting Shadowbolt, and the other 1/6 time Life tapping/moving throughout the fight.

Pre-raiding: Buying the Anger-Spark Gloves (they are BoE) might be a pretty good investment if you are just starting to raid as you will probably never replace them. If for some reason Sunmotes are cheap on your server, buying them to make the Sunfire Wraps is even a better option. Realistically though SWP guilds will need their Sunmotes. Your best option then is to go for the gloves off Kael in regular Magister's Terrace. They're better than anything at the Tier 4 level.

Elemental Shaman DPS Rotation, Cooldowns, and Abilities

Tier 4 raiding: Attumen's ring is very bad, it didn't even make the list. Keep working towards Ashyen's Gift and the heroic badge ring if you don't have it. The Ring of Recurrence is also one of the better items in Karazhan. I prefer it to the exalted Violet Eye ring.

Try to begin with as little Maelstrom as possible

Tier 4 raiding: Staff of Infinite Mysteries is nice, but it isn't as good as the 1H weapons off Prince and Gruul. Having your eye on those weapons over this staff is the best way to go.

The budding tentacle grew into a full one, and was instantly hungry. Instead of scouting for a target, it instead lashed toward the nearest target which perhaps instinctively ended up being Karis, the one who'd been giving them the most trouble. At least, as far as stealing magical energy was concerned.

Tier 5 raiding: Astromancer's Pants are a DPS equivalent to Trial-Fire Trousers and are really lackluster. Tier 5 is only slightly worse than Spellstrike, so if you need to fill a set bonus, it's not a bad slot to sacrifice a tiny bit of DPS for it plus you get some extra stats.

Warlock Gear Guide - from level 20 to endgame

Tier 6 raiding: Illidan's staff = /drool, but the Tempest of Chaos + Rage's off hand is definitely a better DPS combo. When you get to Sunwell, the 50 hit on Felmyst's staff make up for all the hit you'll be using with the Sunwell caster upgrades. This is probably the best way to go, and pretty much the only time I favor a staff over a 1H + OH combo.

Click 'Enable,' if you want to use ElvUI's bag system. It's nice, tidy and flexible in size and positioning. If you have an external bag addon, you will have to disable ElvUI's bag system or you'll get both of them messed up.
